An ABCD Inquiry

- Is a fact-finding effort, not an adversarial forum
- Examines whether or not an actuary materially violated the Code of Professional Conduct
 - not whether the actuary is liable for damages

U.S. Code of Professional Conduct

- The revised U.S. Code of Professional Conduct (“Code”) was adopted by the five U.S.-based actuarial organizations (Academy, ASPPA, CAS, CCA & SoA), and took effect 1 January 2001.
- The Code sets forth professional/ethical standards for actuarial members of the five U.S.-based actuarial organizations.

U.S. Code of Professional Conduct

- The Code contains 14 Precepts, along with annotations providing further guidance on adhering to the Precepts.
- The Precepts are standards that must be followed by credentialed actuaries who are members of one of the U.S.-based organizations or whose member organizations require their members to follow the U.S. Code.

Ethical Dilemmas

SITUATION ONE:

- A client of yours has retained another independent firm to provide a second opinion on some of your work.
- The other firm is a competitor.
- The other firm is now requesting information from you.
- They ask for copies of your notes, test runs and assumption setting analysis.

Ethical Dilemmas

SITUATION ONE [Questions]

1. What are your professional responsibilities to support their work?
2. What part of the Code of Conduct and ASOPs apply to you? to them?
3. Do you need a release from the client?
4. How do you retain your proprietary rights without inappropriately frustrating their audit of your work?

Copyright © 2009 by the Actuarial Board for Counseling and Discipline

Ethical Dilemmas

SITUATION TWO:

1. You are attending a 50 minute session at the Actuaries' Club of the Southwest Meeting.
2. 15 minutes into the session, your seat neighbour leaves the room.
3. You notice that she completes an attendance ticket, including ratings for speakers who have yet to present.
4. You witness that she drops the ticket in the attendance basket.

Ethical Dilemmas

PRECEPT 13:

An Actuary with knowledge of an apparent, unresolved, material violation of the Code by another Actuary should consider discussing the situation with the other Actuary and attempt to resolve the apparent violation.

If such discussion is not attempted or is not successful, the Actuary shall disclose ...

Ethical Dilemmas

PRECEPT 13 (Continued):

...such violation to the appropriate counseling and disciplinary body of the profession, except where the disclosure would be contrary to Law or would divulge Confidential Information.

Ethical Dilemmas

SITUATION TWO [QUESTIONS]:

1. Should you do anything about this occurrence?
2. Under what circumstances would this definitely create a possible Code violation?
3. Under what circumstances would it appear not to have constituted a Code violation?
